
"BEAST OF BERLIN"

ORPHEUM FEATURE

Unusual Film Production Will Appear for Week at Levy
Theatre.

"THE Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," one of the really great motion picture features, ranking with the finest ever shown in Seattle, and holding an exceptional position in the matter of patriotic thrills, emotional fervor, strength of cast and lavishness of production, will come to Seattle for the first time this week, being presented for seven days only at the Orpheum Theatre, Third Avenue and Madison Street, by its owners, Jewel Productions, Inc., who have leased the theatre outright from Manager Eugene Levy for this week.

The picture, in eight parts, will go on at 11 o'clock this morning. From then on the showing will be continuous until 11 o'clock tonight. The film will start once each hour and a half all day long. The same schedule will be observed each day to and including next Saturday. A orchestra of fifteen men under La Grand Carter will interpret its score.

At advanced prices "The Kaiser" played for many weeks to turnaway audiences in New York, Chicago and Boston, and for a shorter period in San Francisco. Seattle is one of the first of American cities to see "The Kaiser." Its great grip on the public is due to its thrilling story. It is not a war picture, but its scenes are laid in unhappy Belgium and things are shown which are said to stir every patriotic American impulse to the quick.

An idea of the vast scope of the story is shown in its characters, which include the President, Ambassador Gerard, Generals Haig, Joffre and Pershing, the Kaiser, Generals von Hindenburg, von Kluck, von Falkenhayn, Admiral von Tirpitz and King Albert of Belgium.
