

At the Seattle Theatre tonight a very large audience will witness the single return performance of the Paul Armstrong play, "The Heir to the Moorah." Guy Bates Post and his company made a big hit at the Grand last week, and tonight's performance will afford an opportunity of seeing the play to all those who were observing Holy Week when the play was here before.

The light has departed from the